

“They are always there to support me and have excellent service and programs.” - Bresee Parent

Dear Friends,

Martin Luther King Jr. preached that “only in the darkness, can you see the stars”. It’s only now in the wake of almost two years of Covid-19’s spread, isolation, fear, and the dimmer it got for all of us, that I’ve started to understand what Reverend King was talking about. To give an indication of the immense need here in central Los Angeles, over the course of a usual program year, Bresee serves, on average, approximately 3,000 youth and family members. During this last 2020-21 cycle, through the pandemic, Bresee assisted over 9,000 youth and families, three times our annual average.

To meet our community’s basic needs over the past year, our parking lot became a “makeshift vaccine clinic” where we mobilized with our partners to vaccinate over 2,500 community members. Our multipurpose room became a “food-storage base” where teams of volunteers helped us organize large-scale food distributions for thousands challenged with food security. Our computer lab became an “emergency rental-assistance hub” where our staff assisted hundreds upon hundreds affected by loss of income from the pandemic, pay down their rental arrears in full, so their families wouldn’t be evicted.

All the while, our now 39-year commitment to helping young people achieve long-term, self-sufficiency remained steadfast. Throughout the pandemic our dedicated team continued to offer both in-person and virtual tutoring, counseling, gang prevention, sports, leadership training, financial literacy, workforce development, paid internships, college access, and scholarships to over one thousand youth.

In the midst of this great darkness, we’ve been blessed to witness so many beautiful stars emerge. They include our over 50 staff who never stopped working towards the mission, the volunteers who have come in droves, the philanthropic sector, board members, and donors who’ve dug in a little deeper to support the work. Yet, the brightest stars we see even more clearly now are the countless young people in our community like Jose Cervantes whose story, featured in this impact report, continues to teach us what it means to be resilient in the face of incredible adversity.

On behalf of our Bresee family, may your light continue to shine through the darkness. We thank you for your partnership and continuing to invest in LA’s future!

Peace,

Seth Eklund
Executive Director

▶ Ms. Ramirez and her children in their new Westlake apartment.

Housing Stability for the Ramirez Family

For many families facing financial strain due to the pandemic, on the verge of homelessness, programs such as Bresee's Homeless Prevention Program (HPP) serve as a beacon of hope by offering a crucial lifeline. Ms. Ramirez, mother of 4, including a teenage girl, two teen sons, and a young daughter, had separated from her boyfriend after the relationship had become abusive. She was temporarily living in a motel room with her kids, including her teenage daughter who has a little boy of her own, until she came into contact with Bresee's HPP program. "When they told me that they were coming to pay for the motel, I felt good because I didn't have money. I was just paying for food because I wasn't working. I couldn't leave my daughters alone in the motel," commented Ms. Ramirez.

Bresee's Housing Stability Advisor (HSA) was then able to negotiate with the apartment complex landlord to secure a rental agreement for the Ramirez family despite the fact she had no established credit. Bresee's HPP was able to pay for the initial deposit and two months of rent, as Ms. Ramirez returned to work to stabilize her family. Now living in a comfortable 2 bedroom apartment in Westlake with her children, Ms. Ramirez expressed, "My daughters are happy. They're in a stable home. We're now eating house food. Yesterday we started cooking because we didn't have electricity before. We're happy now."

GRYD

Bresee's Gang Reduction and Youth Development team provided counseling, family meetings, and youth development activities for the 126 youth most at-risk for joining gangs in the Olympic Zone of Los Angeles. Upon graduation, youth demonstrated an average 65% reduction in risk factors associated with joining gangs.

M&M

Bresee's Middle School team provided summer programming, virtual learning, and daily homework assistance and enrichment activities including dance, art, karate, and soccer for a total of 144 students throughout the school year. The Multi-generational Program fostered connections between youth and seniors through a technology training program that developed skills in email, and internet basics.

ECD

Bresee's Education and Career Development team provided technology training, paid internships, college access, and scholarships for over 164 High School students.

SPORTS LEADERSHIP

Bresee's Sports Leadership & LAFC Youth Leadership team provided $1,000 paid internships to 20 High School Youth Leaders who in turn led athletic classes for over 150 youth. Leaders showed a 30% social emotional growth in teamwork, social skills, and leadership. 100% of the seniors graduated from High School and were accepted to college.

Investing in LA's Future

Jose Cervantes

Age: 22
University: UCLA
Major: Sociology
Bresee Program: LAFC Youth Leadership Program

Born and raised in South Los Angeles where the percentage of residents that obtain a form of degree is less than 5% I was able to graduate from UCLA earning my Bachelors. This was due to having a strong support system such as my family, who migrated from El Salvador in hopes of better opportunities for future generations, my friends who had my back in all of my decisions, and resources such as Bresee which continues to help me grow as a person from the very first time I became involved.

Bresee has truly brought once in a lifetime opportunities that if it was not for the center, I would never have been able to experience. I became involved with Bresee back in 2013, during my 9th grade year when the LAFC Youth Leadership Program they launched at my high school Augustus Hawkins, first started with it's Friday night soccer clinics. The clinics were so much fun, with hundreds of kids showing up, that when the opportunity arose to lead the soccer clinics presented itself I had to take it.

I went through an application and interview process, was selected, and then underwent an intensive summer training to be able to become a Youth Leader. Everything I learned I would go on to apply in every other part of my life. Leading soccer clinics helped me grow out of my shell as I not only led hundreds of middle school students, but also got the chance to lead our team of 25

Youth Leaders. In my junior year of high school I was selected through Bresee to go on a trip across the ocean to Ireland and Northern Ireland to play soccer. It was a trip that I will never forget as I made friendships and memories that are unforgettable.

In my senior year when I was applying for colleges, I was able to apply for the Bresee Scholarship. I was interviewed and fortunate enough to receive the scholarship that helped me out financially all four years at UCLA, and graduated with no loans. The scholarship went beyond just financial support, but also provided me with emotional support as the Bresee staff checked in with me on a regular basis.

With Bresee's partnership with MLS LAFC and my relationship with Bresee Board Chair Rich Orosco, who is Vice President of LAFC's Brand & Community, I currently have an internship working as a matchday host. Working on the pitch at Banc of California stadium during LAFC games for the past 3 seasons I have gained such valuable experience. I am currently working at a law firm with aspirations of pursuing higher education. Looking forward, I hope to continue giving back to the next generation of young people in Los Angeles, just as Bresee invested in me.
